

Founded in 1989, the Club of Notes is now one of the world's largest suppliers of printed sticky notes, offering world class solutions in printed promotional products.

The Club of Notes is active in more than 40 printing companies around the world, serving a wide variety of customers across a broad spectrum of industries. The Club of Notes network provides its printer members with technical and marketing expertise, guaranteeing that you - the customer - benefit from a variety of innovative and competitively priced products.

Club of Notes excellence

The requirements of its customers drives the Club of Notes, providing the challenge which enables its members to combine their strengths and resources in the development of excellent products and services, meeting the ever changing demands of a global marketplace.

These demands are reflected in an environmental policy which specifies the use of a water based adhesive in the manufacture of the Club of Notes raw materials, thus eradicating solvents from the sticky notes production process.

The strength of the Club of Notes global operations is reflected in its value-based leadership position in the market for printed sticky notes.

Corporate social responsibility

In an age of globalisation and constant economic development, the Club of Notes considers itself accountable towards the environment and society.

The economic success and sustained growth of the Club of Notes has created an ever greater obligation to support the basis and conditions of the member businesses within, looking to the future and acting accordingly, with an ever-present awareness of social and ecological responsibilities towards the environment, staff, suppliers and customers alike.

All Club of Notes members undertake to comply with socially acceptable working conditions and production processes, internationally valid human rights, environmental laws and the principle of equal opportunities.

Caring for the environment

As a specialist producer of paper based, promotional products, the Club of Notes focus on the environment is a major principle.

A constantly evolving programme, gathering knowledge and creating awareness of environmental issues, operates throughout the Club of Notes with a goal to take the commitment to ever higher levels.

All self-adhesive paper products are coated with a water-based adhesive, thus

FSC certification

The FSC symbol is a powerful indication of commitment towards the environment by both the printers who produce the material bearing the FSC mark and the customers who purchase them.

The Club of Notes includes FSC certified paper within its paper portfolio, thus providing its customers with the opportunity to tell the world that they support the highest social and environmental standards. Purchase of FSC certified paper and related printed products contributes to conservation, responsible forestry management and the support of the people who work within the forestry community.

An ever increasing number of Club of Notes members have FSC chain of custody certification, details of which can be provided on request.

Other standards and industry certificates are in place and include:

- ISEGA certificate (food)
- Blue Angel
- Dermatological certificate (skin irritation)
- DIN EN 71-3 (no metallic contents)
- No poly aromatic hydro carbon = no organic poisons
- No toluene = no organic poisons
- No trichlore benzene = no organic poisons

eradicating solvents from the production process.

The Club of Notes cooperates extensively with paper suppliers who apply clear ecological and ethical principles, are themselves committed to the environment and obtain their raw materials from environmentally friendly and sustainable forestry. Raw material suppliers are chosen according to recognised international standards (FSC, ISO 9000, ISO 14001, PEFC etc).

Recycled papers

In short, the Club of Notes cares about the world we live in and takes steps to ensure that the way in which products are produced can be sustained, with minimal impact on the environment.

Paper production accounts for about 43% of harvested wood and represents 1.2% of the world's total economic output. Based on which, the Club of Notes recognises that recycling of paper saves our world tons of wood.

As a result, the Club of Notes product portfolio incorporates a range of recycled paper, manufactured from 100% consumer waste, including white together with a range of attractive colours.

International presence

As one of the world's leading groups of promotional sticky note manufacturers, the Club of Notes provides a powerful commercial network, serving all significant market sectors, whilst also creating the base for future expansion and innovation.

Whilst maintaining the motivation for future development, the Club of Notes takes steps to ensure the practical conformance of their products whilst also complying with any legal and ethical requirements which may apply.
